HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or Vital Principle of Roots, Herbs and Barks, (or as medicinally termed Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore, in one Bottle of these Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons of ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters, are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, where they are compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others; no desire for stimulents can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a Beneficial effect.

HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulent is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the Tonic contains one-half of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the Bitters is overcome, forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate and containing the medicinal vigue of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1.50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulent used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefitted by it will most certainly be cheated.

SELECT POETRY.

OVER THE HILL TO THE POOR HOUSE.

BY WILL M. CARLETON.

Over the hill to the poor-house, I'm trudgin' my weary way—
I, a woman of seventy, and only a trifle gray—
I, who am smart an' chipper, for all the many I've told,
As many another woman that's not half as old.

Over the hill to the poor house—I can't quite make it clear!
Over the hill to the poor house—it seems so horrid queer!
Many a step I've taken a-dollin' to and fro,
But this is a sort of a journey I never thought to go.

What is the use of heapin' on me a pauper's shame?
Am I lazy or crazy? am I blind or lame?
True, I am not so supple, nor yet so awful stout:
But charity ain't no larve, if one can live without.

I am willin' an' anxious an' ready any day
To work for a decent livin' an' pay my I owest way;
For I can earn my victuals, an' more, too, I'll be bound,
If anybody only is willin' to have me round.

Once I was young and han'some—I was, upon my soul—
Once my cheeks was roses, my eyes as black as coal;
And I can't remember, for them days, of hearin' people say,
For any kind of a reason, that I was in their way.

'Taint no use of bostin', or talkin' over free,
But many a han'some offer I had from likely men,
And nobody ever hinted that I was a burden then.

And when I to John was married, 'thuro he was good, to be sure,
But he and all the neighbors would own I done my parter;
For like 'twas all belong to me an' I was young an' strong,
And I worked the best that I could in tryin' to get along.

And so we worked together, and 'twas hard but gay,
With now and then a baby for to cheer us on our way;
Till we had half a dozen, an all growed stout an' neat,
An' went to school like others, an' had good larnin' to eat.

So we worked for the children, and raised them every one,
Only perhaps we humored 'em, which some good folks condemn,
But every couple's children's a heap the best to them.

Strange how much we think of our blessed little ones!
I'd have died for my daughters, I'd have died for my sons;
And God he made that rule of love; but when we're old and grey,
I've noticed sometimes it somehow fails to work the other way.

Strange, another thing; when our boys an' girls was grown,
And when, exceptin' Charley, they'd left us once alone;
When John he nearer an' nearer come, an' dearer seemed to be,
The Lord of Hosts He come one day an' took him away from me.

Still I was bound to struggle, and never to cringe or fail—
Still I worked for Charley, for Charley was now my all;
And Charley was pretty good to me, with scarce a word or frown,
Till at last he went a-courtin', and brought a wife from town.

She was somewhat dressy, and hadn't a pleasant smile—
She was quite concelty, and carried a heap o' style;
But if ever I tried to be friends, I did with her, I know;
But she was hard and proud, an' I couldn't make it go.

She had an edication, and that was good for her,
But when she twitted me on mine, 'twas carryin' things too far;
An' I told her once, 'fore company (an' it almost made her sick)
That I never swallowed a grammar, or et a 'rithmetic.

So, 'twas only a few days before the thing was done—
They was a family of themselves, and I another one;
An a very little cottage one family will do,
But I never have seen a house that was big enough for two.

An' I never could speak to suit her, never could please her eye,
An' it made me independent, an' then I didn't try;
But I was terribly staggered, and felt it like a blow,
When Charley turned agin me, and told me I could go.

I went to live with Susan, but Susan's house was small,
An' she was always a-hintin' how snug it was for us all;
An' what with her husband's sisters, and what with children three,
'Twas easy to discover there wasn't room for me.

An' then I went to Thomas', the oldest son I've got
For Thomas' buildings 'd cover the half of an acre lot;
But all the child'n was on me—I couldn't stand their sauce—
And Thomas said I needn't think I was comin' there to boss.

An' then I wrote to Rebecca, my girl who lives out west,
And to Isaac, not far from her—some twenty miles at best—
And one of 'em said 'twas too warm there for any one so old,
And t'other had the opinion the climate was too cold.

So they have shirked and slighted me, and shifted me about—
So they've well nigh soured me, an' wore my old heart out;
But still I've borne up pretty well, an' wasn't one to pout,
Till Charley went to the poor master, and put me on the town.

Over the hill to the poor house—my children dear, good-by!
Many a night I've watched you when only God was nigh;
And God 'll judge between us; but I will always pray,
That you shall never suffer the half I do to day.

"WORDS AND THEIR USES."

BY A MYSTIFIED QUAKER.

NEW YORK, 4th Month, 10th, 1871.

RESPECTED WIFE: From these lines my whereabouts thee'll learn—
Moreover, I direct to thee my serious concern:
The language of this people is a riddle unto me,
And words, with them, are figments of a reckless mockery!

For instance, as I left the cars, an imp with smutty face,
Said "Shine?" Nay, I'll not shine," I said, "except with inward grace!"
"Is 'inward grace' a liquid or a paste?" asked this young Yank;
"If Daddy I can't get is, inward grace!' How does the old thing work?"

"Friend," said I to a John, whose breath suggested gin,
"Can thee convey me straightway to a reputable inn?"
His answer's gross irrelevance I shall not soon forget—
Instead of simply yea or nay, he gruffly said "You bet!"

"Nay, nay, I shall not bet," said I, "for that would be a sin—
Why don't thee answer plainly: Can thee take me to an inn?"
Thy vehicle is doubtless meant to carry folk about in—
Then why prevaricate?" Said he, perversely, "Now yer shoutin'!"

"Nay, verily, I shouted not!" quoth I, "my speech is mild;
"But this—I grieve to say it—with falsehood is defiled.
Thee ought to be admonished to rid thy heart of guile,"
"See here! my live moke," said he, "you sling on too much style!"

"I've had these plain drab garments twenty years and more," said I,
"And when thee says I sling on style," thee tells a wilful lie!"
At that he pranced around as if a bee were in his bonnet,
And with hostile demonstrations inquired if I was "on it!"

'On what? Till thee explains thyself, I cannot tell," I said,
He swore that something was "too thin;" moreover it was "played;"
But all his jargon was surpassed in wild absurdity,
By threats, profanely emphasized, "to put a head on me!"

"No son of Belial," said I, "that miracle can do!
Whereat he fell upon me with blows and curses too,
But failed to work that miracle—if such was his design—
Instead of "putting on a head," he strove to smite off mine!

Thee knows I cultivate the peaceful habit of our sect,
But that man's conduct wrought on me a singular effect:
For when he slapped my broad brim off, and asked, "How's that for high?"
It roused the Adam in me, and I smote him hip and thigh!

The throng then gave a specimen of calumny broke loose,
And said I'd "snatched him bald-headed," and likewise "cooked his goose!"
Although, I solemnly affirm, I did not pull his hair,
Nor did I cook his poultry—for he had no poultry there!

They called me "Bully boy!" although I've seen nigh three-score years;
They said that I "was lightning" when I "got upon my ear!"
And when I asked if lightning climbed its ear, or dressed in drab?
"You know how 'tis yourself!" said one inconsequential blab!

Thee can conceive that, by this time, I was somewhat perplexed;
Yea, the placid spirit in me has seldom been so vexed:
I turned there no longer, for plain-spoken men—like me—
Will such perverters of our tongue can have no unity.

CHAPTER I.

The centre of the city is like the palm of a hand. From it the long fingers stretch out; one over the mill-dam, another along the flats; the longest of all bridges the river, and then going on and on, the straight wide street rising until it overlooks the bay suddenly bends like the crook of a finger, until its tip touches the water.

It is a ladder—a hill of difficulty to the dwellers at this end of the town, most of whom began life at its foot, in the dingy shops and tenement houses there and have slowly struggled up; some to the long blocks of comfortable dwellings; others, going on still farther, have reached the most pretentious point of all—that lying close down to the water upon the other side.

There is an air of newness, a flavor of Jonah's gourd about the Italian-Chinese pagoda-with French roofs here. They seem, indeed, to have sprung up in a night, the dampness of the mould still clinging to them. There is a straining after pinnacles and towers and top knots in architecture—after effects quite disproportioned to means in landscape gardening, and in fact, an evident attempt to crowd in their utmost capacity the present limited space and time.

This is the foundation built upon the rock—gold. Another generation will develop the fine art and possibly the sciences.

In the meantime I will tell my little story.

Paul Hayes was sent here to preach the gospel, for there are churches. Some of them, even so soon, are beginning to pride themselves, not upon their sanctity, but upon the high social position of their members—in other words, upon the distance which they live from the foot of the street, which is their social scale.

Fortunately Paul's church was not among these. If one has to deal with fashionable people, it is better to take rural folks with wonderful possibilities. But iron—spoiled in the smelting—what can one do with it?

His church was only a mission chapel, supported by a rich society of the same denomination; his people—the men and women to whom one goes with ungloved hands. But he was young and strong, and believed himself called of God, which is the best preparation for any work. He threw aside his books and read men.

There are a few exceptions to the houses I have described in the more aristocratic part of the town. One will suffice to prove the rule. It stands away from the street, just below the staring

THE Fifth Auditor of the United States, on Monday of last week, promoted Miss Helen Goodwin, of New York, Mrs. Susan O'Sullivan, of Massachusetts, and Miss J. E. Jennings, of Wisconsin, from copyists in his Department, to first class clerkships. They passed the same critical examinations as to their qualifications, to which male applicants for clerkships are subjected. Woman's rights are respected in the various Departments of the Government at Washington.

THE President has been officially notified that the young Russian Grand Duke Alexis will visit this country about the first of September. The fleet which is to convey his Imperial Highness to these shores, will land at the port of New York. Several of the prominent citizens of the metropolis have undertaken to give a reception to the Royal visitor in keeping with his high dignity, and that of the Empire State.

THE Democracy, as a general thing, do not take kindly to the New Departure" doctrine. In their State Conventions, just now, they have a good deal of wriggling, and usually no little cursing is done before they can be brought to assent to the adoption of a Republican platform in a Democratic meeting. Their qualmishnes, however, is generally overcome. Iowa furnishes the latest instance:

THE world moves, and so does even the Democratic party of Pennsylvania. Take as an illustration the following:

DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM, 1868.	DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM, 1871.
Resolved, That the Democratic party of Pennsylvania is opposed to conferring upon the negro the right to vote, and we do emphatically deny that there is any right or power in Congress or elsewhere to impose negro suffrage upon the people of the State in opposition to their will.	Resolved, That we recognize the obligation of all the provisions of the Constitution of the United States as they now exist, and we now deprecate the discussion of issues which have been settled in the manner and by the authority constitutionally appointed.

THE Secretary of War has approved the finding of the Court martial in the case of the colored cadet Smith, who was dismissed from West Point Academy. Mr. Belknap, in an order issued last week, says that while approving the findings and sentence, in view of all the circumstances surrounding this case, and believing that the ends of justice will be better subserved, and the policy of the government, of which the presence of this cadet in the Military Academy is a signal illustration, be better maintained [illegible] the President is pleased to mitigate it by substituting for the dismissal from the service of the United States a reduction of his academic standing one year.

DEMOCRATIC friendship for the workingman is exemplified by the fact that a Democratic majority in the State Senate refused to consider or pass a resolution presented to the House by a Republican and passed by a clear Republican majority condemning Coolie labor. The fact is, that the Democratic leaders are in favor of the system of enslaved labor, as they have heretofore been the advocates of all systems for the bondage of the workingmen. Give that party political power, and with Frank Gowan at their head, it would fill the collieries of Pennsylvania with Coolies, willing to work for the old Democratic standard of wages, ten cents per day. Such is Democratic friendship of workingmen. Let the miners in the coal regions and laboring men everywhere take heed.

MRS. WOODHULL is reported to have said recently in a public lecture: "Next year I shall be elected President of the United States, and they will see the strength of this movement. As I said to the President last winter when I was in Washington—'Ulysses,' I said—I call him Ulysses, as we are very old friends; we grew up together—'Ulysses,' said I, 'you ought to have taken a strong position on the Fourteenth Amendment in favor of female suffrage, the same as you have in favor of negro suffrage on the Fifteenth Amendment. That would have made you strong.' 'I knew I should,' he replied, 'but I was so situated that I couldn't. The politicians wouldn't let me do as I pleased.' 'Then, said I,' 'as you hadn't the moral courage to do what you knew to be right, you will have to surrender this place two years hence to me.'"

BOWEN, the member of Congress from south Carolina who has been on trial after trial, in Washington for some months back, for an undue amount of marrying, was convicted last week. His last wife, Mrs. Susan Petigrue King, was at his side when the sentence of the court was pronounced, and said to the Judge: "If you sentence him, sentence me too, for I am as much to blame as him." Bowen then made a statement concerning the circumstances of his marriage, before which Mrs. King was sent to New York and obtained a copy of the record of his divorce from his former wife. She as well as himself was satisfied that everything was right and no legal obstruction was in the way of their marriage. Judge Olin then sentenced Bowen to pay a fine of $250 and to be imprisoned for two years in the penitentiary. Bowen, after a pause, addressed Mrs. King, saying that when his term expired he would return to her, whereupon Mrs. King extended to him her hand, which he grasped as a pledge of faith. She appeared to be deeply affected.

A SPECIAL dispatch from Lebanon, O., states that C. L. Vallandigham, one of the counsel for Thomas McGeehan, on trial for murder, accidentally shot himself on the night of Friday last at the Lebanon House. He was in his room in company with Governor McBurney, and while showing with a pistol how Meyers, the murdered man, might have shot himself, the pistol went off, the ball entering the right side of the abdomen below the ribs. What direction the ball took is not known. Surgeons were making an examination. Dr. Reeves, at Dayton, was sent for. The latest word is that the ball did not penetrate the intestines, and the wound is not mortal. He has perfect possession of his faculties. The pistol used was a Smith & Wesson's. No one knows how it came to be discharged. The act has produced intense excitement in Lebanon. A later dispatch from Vallandigham states that his hands and feet are growing cold, he vomits often but throws up no blood. Dr. Drake says he was sinking fast.

LATER.—Vallandigham died 18 minutes before ten o'clock, on the morning of the 17th inst. His body was taken to Dayton, Ohio.

PHILADELPHIA is stirred up. There is a movement for a citizens organization to fight corruption and defeat rings.

The Ledger expresses its wrath against extortion, corruption, extravagance and malfeasance in office in this forcible style:

"The Coroner or the Court Clerk, or other "Row" officer, who wants to double his already large fees, rushes to Harrisburg, and, through the creatures he and his fellows have "wire worked" into that body by means of nominating conventions, he gets it done, and adds to his princely income at the expense of the people—the official who desires to legislate his illegal extortion does the same thing in the same way with the same result; the Receiver of Taxes, whose avarice impels him to hold on to the emoluments of office, after his term has expired, or to make new raids on the pockets of citizens or the City Treasury, follows in the same track; the Highway and Public Buildings, lobbers who scour all about the fat pickings resulting from public contracts given out as "patronage" by their party "friends" pursue the same line; and so on throughout the round of our city ediles. They all appeal to their creatures in the City Delegation at Harrisburg. As a rule there is sufficient of them in the Legislature to put all such "little bills" through. Thus the corrupt office holders, jobbers and contractors are furnished with ample amounts of money taken from the pockets of the people to buy up the delegates to the nominating conventions, to renominate their creatures to the Legislature, and thus also to control nearly all the public offices, including that most important body the City Councils. This round of favors and of fortunes is what constitutes the operations of the "ring," and that which makes the word so aptly descriptive and significant of the men who work it.

COL. GEORGE W. MCCOOK, a brother of the fighting McCook's during the rebellion, was nominated a couple of weeks ago, by the Democrats of Ohio as their candidate for Governor. Col. George, was not in the field during the late war, but his political associates are evidently trying to make him Governor on the merits and fighting qualities of his brothers.—It will hardly "take" however, as the people generally believe that "every tub should stand upon its own bottom" and every would-be-officer, on a character of his own making. The effort to ignore the Gubernatorial candidate's own military history, and to make capital for him out of what his relatives did during the late war, is thus neatly nipped by the editor of the Salem, Ohio, Republican who was reared in the same town with Col. McCook: His military history in the late "unpleasantness" with his "Southern brethern" is not even as brilliant as his Mexican campaign. In that war the redoubtable George Washington went out as a Lieut. Colonel. He got beyond the Rio Grande. We well remember, (a mere boy then living in the same town where George peacefully dwelt with his father) of listening in [illegible] escapes of the young warrior. The one most dwelt on, however, was where in he displayed extraordinary courage and endurance during an attack on the Colonel's flank by a company of very mean and cowardly Mexicans. George saw them coming through the chapparal like mad Indians. "Discretion," he had only time to remember, "was the better part of valor." With the boldness and determination characteristic of the man, he drew his sword and threw away the scabbard, (for convenience) and in loud command to the men around him, said: "Soldiers, we are attacked; follow me!" and immediately ran for the river. He plunged in, (as the story was told) and swam across the Rio Grande to American soil, with fifteen of his men hanging to his legs, arms, and coat tail, and received twenty-seven Mexican bullet holes through his hat—it resembled a huge pepper-box—but not a hair of his head was touched. Soon after that occurrence he came home, and commenced his more peaceful career as a Democratic politician.

A LENGTHY and well written article on the recent apportionment law for this State appears in last week's Lawrence Journal. The editor takes the ground that the act referred to is unconstitutional inasmuch as it leaves the Lawrence district unrepresented in the State Senate from now until 1872, while the State Constitution prescribes that each county and district shall at all times have their proper representatives in both branches of the Legislature. The Journal's argument seems to be conclusive, and we have heard incidentally that steps have been taken to bring the matter before Governor Geary and his Attorney General, without delay. It will be remembered that the Governor never attached his official signature to this bill, but suffered it to become a law by lapse of time. Whether among the other defects he saw in the bill, he discovered the one here referred to, remains to be seen. It is a matter, however, which deserves official attention, and we are glad to hear that it will probably receive it.

A DISPATCH from Admiral Rogers was received at the Navy Department at Washington last week, dated at Borzo, (Island of Corean,) Asia, June 3. It says, in substance, that our Minister and the Corean Envoy exchanged a profusion of amicable intentions. The Coreans made no objections to a survey of their waters by the combined officers of the boats sent from the ships of the American and European powers present. Commander Blake's launch was fired on from a masked battery, at a difficult point in the river Sashe. The battery was manned by some thousands of Coreans. The fleet bearing up drove the enemy from their works. The tide drove the boats past the battery, where they anchored and shelled the retreating enemy. Our people displayed much gallantry and only two were slightly hurt. A communication was received in the evening of the day of the fight, which it was thought might open negotiations, otherwise since the Coreans have met peaceful overtures with unprovoked war our force would land, destroy the forts and take such other measures as the interests of civilization require. It is understood that Admiral Rogers was conveying to Corean a number of their citizens whom he had rescued from shipwreck, intending to illustrate the friendship of all civilized nations as contrasted with the acts of the Coreans who, not long ago, murdered a French crew wrecked on that coast.

THE opponents of the popular vote system of making party nominations took occasion to tell us here very frequently last fall, that, in Crawford county, where the experiment originated and where it had been thoroughly tested, it stood condemned by the people, and a return to the delegate system was demanded. We pronounced this version of affairs in that county, incorrect at that time, and the result of a recent vote there, on the subject shows ours to have been the correct view. The question of repeal was submitted to a direct vote of the Republicans of the county, and the result was: 84 for repeal and 2,257 against repeal. The county convention therefore passed the following resolution:

That as Republicans of the county so strongly endorsed our present system of making nominations we request our members of the Legislature at the next session to pass an act protecting it by requiring the officers of Primary elections to be sworn, and authorizing them to administer oaths, and prescribing the penalties for false swearing and false and fraudulent returns as are now prescribed for similar offences at the general election.

THE confederate archives captured by our troops when Richmond fell have been found to be extremely useful on more than one occasion. The Southern claims commission found them to be valuable in many cases where the loyalty of their claimant before that board is concerned. The latest instance of this character occurred on Tuesday at Washington In the case of a Virginian named Levy, who has a claim against the government to the extent of the amount of about $10,000. Levy has stoutly asserted his loyalty to be above suspicion, and has taken, without scruple, all the oaths which are administered by the commissioners. He was confronted with confederate official documents written by him during the rebellion, all of which were on the most approved fire eating, union hating and Yankee decstroying style. It is hardly necessary to state that in the present instance the commissioners are still waiting for the Virginia gentleman to explain.

COMMISSIONER Pleasanton says that immediately after the rendering of the decision in the New York Central Railroad Scrip case, he ordered the collector to proceed to the collection of the tax; but cannot tell why the order has been disregarded. It is stated that the delay is caused by a death in the family of the Assistant Solicitor, Mr. Robinson, who was compelled to leave the city just prior to the return home of Mr. Banfield, Solicitor, from the West. Mr. Robinson's researches among the authorities as to the power of any one to make an appeal to the Secretary from the decision of the Commissioner of the Internal Revenue, had not been carried so far as to enable the Solicitor to make use of them. As the case now stands the railroad will have to pay over a half a million dollars.

Benjamin F. Wade, of Ohio, has consented to be a Republican candidate for Governor of that State. There is no man living, who has a firmer hold on the affections of the people of that State, than has the bluff, honest old statesman, who represented them in the Senate for eighteen years, and there is no other for whom they will so heartily rally. Wade will make the Democrats of that section comprehend that even their "new departure" will not save them.

HERE AND THERE.

—A few nights since some scoundrel broke into the Catholic Church at Summitville, Columbiana county, and stole everything of value that could be found. Among other things he carried off, was a solid silver communion service. The entire loss is estimated at about $300.

—The pledge of no party is worth relying upon, when its leaders in the darkest hour of the nation's perils, array themselves on the side of its enemies. Men who make treason the purpose of their party platforms, are not to be trusted in the hour of loyalty's victory, because of their mere professions of patriotism.

—As Miles Standish was the first commissioned military officer in the United States, the military of the country feel much interest on the subject of a monument to the old hero at Duxbury. President Grant has expressed himself much interested in the subject. The large hill on the Standish farm called "Captains Hill" has been selected for the monument. The situation overlooks nearly the whole of Massachusetts and Plymouth bays.

—A letter from Lesburg, New Mexico, says: General Gordon Granger, who recently assumed command of the military district, has determined to solve the Indian question within the limits of his jurisdiction with the rifle and revolver, and as an evidence that he means business he has ordered all the available forces to report to General Thomas C. Devlin, at a point west of the Rio Grande, in Grant county, who will direct operations against the Apaches.

—The following shows the number of graves in the Gettysburg cemetery, with the different States which they represent: New York, 868; Pennsylvania, 534; Massachusetts, 159; Ohio, 131; Maine, 104; Michigan, 171; Indiana, 80; New Jersey, 78; Wisconsin, 73; Minnesota, 52; Vermont, 61; New Hampshire, 49; Connecticut, 22; Maryland, 22; Delaware, 15; Rhode Island, 12; West Virginia, 11; Illinois, 6, regulars, 138: unknown, 970; making an aggregate of 3,575. Directly after the battle, thousands were removed by friends and relatives, leaving but a comparatively small number.

—A man named Waple has been arrested and is now in custody at Clearfield, Pa., for attempting to place obstructions on the railroad at Wallaceton. Waple was foremerly an employee of the railroad company, but was discharged. Several times since he was dismissed, obstructions were discovered on the track, and he was suspected. On Wednesday last he was discovered placing obstructions on the road at a point where there is a high embankment, and was arrested. He will be tried in September.

—Advices received at St. Louis, on the 15th inst., from the borders of Texas, state that a scouting party of troops, south of Fort Bascom, captured a strong party of Mexicans, consisting of ten Mexicans and one Indian, with twenty loads of ammunition, arms, &c., which the troops destroyed the next day. The troops captured five hundred head of cattle, stolen from Texas and traded off to the Mexicans.

—There are two men in Northampton, Massachusetts, who ought to feel cheaper than if they had been parties to an election bet. One of them is the grandfather of a young lady and the other is her father, and a few days ago the former told her that if she would lead the best cow he had from his house to that of her father, about half a mile distant, he would give her the cow. Her father promised to throw in a gold watch. The daughter accepted the foolish banter, and was accordingly seen, as the local paper says, "in her usual elegant attire," leading the cow through the streets. Whether the feat, as it is called, had a tendency to add to that maidenly reserve in her which is so eminently characteristic of the young ladies of the present day, we are not advised.

—Secretary Seward, while in India, was invited to Puteulla by the Maharajah, and received there in grand style. Miss Olive Risley, one of the venerable Secretary's traveling companions, and his adopted daughter, writing home, says blue velvet carriages were sent for the party, the Maharajah himself coming to meet them, and they were escorted to the city gates amid an escort of soldiery, calcium lights, music and cannon. There twenty-four elephants stood in line, with "housings of goldcloth and carrings that came to their feet." Mr. Seward and the ladies climbed up the sides of these magnificent animals by ladders of silver, and seated themselves in howdahs of gold, cushioned with crimson velvet; and thus they entered the city. Three miles they rode the elephants, through avenues of torches, until they alighted at a gorgeous palace. "This is yours," said the Maharajah to Mr. Seward, as they entered. The next day they were treated to an elephant fight, and held a reception, where they sat on gold chairs, and saw dancing girls, and the Maharajah gave Mr. Seward a turban and each of the ladies a Cashmere shawl.

Incidents of the Flood.

The New Orleans Times of the 8th say: "The moving of families from the submerged districts still continues. A frightful accident befell a gentleman on Sunday at the corner of Common and Claiborne streets.—He had been engaged in moving his family, and was in the act of carrying his wife from a skiff when he was bitten by a snake. We are informed that he died from the effects of the bite in twenty minutes. During the disaster a number of houses have been stripped by miscreants of every article of value. Some of the guilty parties have been arrested and committed for trial. It is reported that the break at Haven avenue is finally closed and the water has ceased to run in from the new canal. The levee on Claiborne canal, in the rear of Poland street, third district, was cut yesterday in five places by four miscreants who went there in a flat-boat, and opened when the [illegible] race in the rear of Melpomene canal. All suspected points of danger are at present guarded by the police."

An Unusual Incident.

There is something really out of the common way in an incident occurring at the recent anniversary meeting of the Presbyterians in Chicago. On the programme was entered the report of a Special Committee instructed last year with the superintendence of an effort to raise five million dollars as a memorial fund. The time came for the reading of the report, and Rev. Dr. Ellinwood rendered up the account of this responsible stewardship. The report was short, and so sustained in interest that the audience listened to it with intense attention. With apparent purpose, all figures were kept in the background, till just as the report reached its conclusion, when the astounding fact was announced that the year's efforts had resulted in the collection of a memorial fund amounting to more than seven million dollars in Presbyterian churches in a single year. When this grand total was announced, the vast audience broke out spontaneously into loud applause, in the midst of which some one started the doxology, "Praise God, from whom all blessings flow," which having been sung, all remained standing while Rev. Dr. Hall, of New York offered prayer. The prayer is spoken of by those who heard it as a most affecting one, and at its close there was hardly a dry eye in the house.

—The St. Charles Iron bridge, built across the Missouri River, twenty miles north of St. Louis, for the use of the North Missouri Railroad, was formally opened on May 29th, and is the first high bridge that has ever been completed over either the Missouri or the Mississippi rivers. The work of construction was commenced in August 1868, and the bridge was completed in two years and ten months. The bridge is composed of seven iron spans, varying from 306 to 321½ feet each, and resting upon stone piers. It was tested by placing six heavy locomotives and tenders upon each span, and the depression in the centre was generally between three and four inches. The entire cost amounted to two millions of dollars, and the bridge is to be leased to the North Missouri Railroad at a yearly rental of $150,000, which may according to the business done, be increased to $200,000.

—An artificial whirlwind blew at Glen's Falls, New York, a few days since; it was caused by a farmer, who, wishing to burn a fallow of about fifteen or twenty acres, ignited the brush at several places at the outer edge. The flames rushed toward the centre and assumed a rotary motion, which increased in velocity till a terrible whirlwind was formed, which tore up small trees, root and branch, and frightened everybody who witnessed it. A column of smoke rose to so great a hight that it was visible for many miles, and a noise as loud as thunder accompanied this singular phenomenon

—All that portion of New Orleans west of Franklin street, and between the old and new canals, is flooded from heavy rains and breaks in the canals. One of these crevasses in the new canal levee is 125 feet in width and four in depth, pouring water into the city. In addition, the stream from the Bonnet Carre crevasse, with a current from the Gulf caused by easterly winds, has caused a rise in Lake Pontchartrain, and flooded Milneburg and the lake end of the Pontchartrain Railroad. The New Orleans, Mobile and Texas Railroad, from Port Macomb to the Rejolets, a distance of twelve miles, is also partially submerged. At last accounts the water in Lake Pontchartrain was slowly receeding.

—Mr. Greeley wrote an editorial in which the sentence "Erin go Bragh" occurred twice. One compositor set it up "Erin yer dough," and another set it "Indigo blue." Horace was so mad he kicked himself down two pair of stairs.

"Party," Versus Principle.

Politics are not intrinsically bad. It is a vulgar saying that "politics are the ruin of the country." This comes from confounding politics proper with mere party spirit and party warfare. The science of government cannot be evil except as it is imperfect, nor is even party spirit necessarily damaging, save when the strife is based only on party questions; when private character and high qualifications are ignored, and when candidates are nominated and elected by the most corrupt means, through the use of party machinery. In such contests men of worth and ability stand no chance; men who blaspheme and shout against their opponents are preferred to the friends of good order and peace. The old party cry that it is the duty of every party to vote the party nominations, with regard to character, integrity or other qualifications, is not, without its influence, and is the leverage upon which the corrupt element in politics relies. The fashion of estimating a man's goodness and desert by the similarity of his political convictions to our own is old enough, and has foisted upon the public service too many bad men to be any longer received as a sufficient voucher for a candidate claiming the support of a respectable community. Let us either choose our legislators, judges and municipal officers upon higher ground, or cease the affectation of styling ourselves a moral and enlightened people, capable of self-government. Manufacturer's Review.

Murdered in Church.

A private letter gives the following additional facts concerning the murder of a Baptist minister in an Arkansas pulpit. The affair occurred in Scott county: He was murdered in the church a few weeks since, by a notorious scamp. The name of the minister was Deschamps, and a Royal Arch Mason, a man esteemed and beloved by all who knew him. Both Radicals and Democrats are very much excited and incensed at the outrage. About two years ago Deschamps held a protracted meeting in which several joined the church. At the water's edge, on the day set aside for baptism, Deschamps called on the brethren to sing, and as they seemed backward and tardy, the invitation to sing was extended to the congregation, and the young man, subsequently Deschamps' murderer, with one or two of his associates near by, commenced singing the comic or vulgar song, "The old gray horse," etc. They were reported to the grand jury, and it cost them $25. On the day of the murder the young man walked into the church, and, in the presence of two gentleman and several ladies, killed Deschamps, drove the men and women out of the house, then went back and shot two more balls through his (Deschamp's) body and one through his head. The young man made his escape and is still at large. Large rewards are offered for him by the "Dardanelle Association," the Masonic fraternity and probably by the State. Deschamps was among the first in rank with the Baptist preachers in Arkansas.

A Child and its Rescuer Killed.

The Wheeling Intelligencer of June 13 says: The Cincinnati and Pittsburgh express coming west over the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad yesterday morning, about a mile east of Glover's gap, ran over and instantly killed a young man of perhaps eighteen years of age and a child of five or six, which he was trying to rescue from danger. The young man was mending a fence not far from the track, and the child, whose brother he was, appears to have left the house with the intention of crossing the road and going to him. The child, when seen by the engineer, was walking along beside the road at a safe distance. When the brother saw the train, apprehending that the child might attempt to cross before the train. As the train approached the child seeing its brother coming on the other side of the road, turned, with a strange fatality, and started to run across the track directly in front of the engine, to meet him. The brother sprang upon the track to snatch it away, and in an instant the locomotive was upon them and they were crushed beneath its ponderous wheels. The train was stopped as soon as possible, and all went back to the sad spectacle. The child's body was dreadfully mangled, and the upper portion of the young man's head had been crushed completely away. The father and mother had come out to the roadside, and were bending over their dead children and uttering heart-piercing lamentations. It was a scene to melt hearts of stone, and many were moved to tears. The engineer was much affected, and, hardened by danger as may be supposed, turned as white as a sheet when he looked upon the mangled remains. He is pronounced entirely blameless, as there was no time to stop the train, even if there had been reason to apprehend that the child would get upon the track. The name of the family our informant was not sure of, but he thought it was Sisson.

—One Armstrong, a delegate to the Democratic State Convention, being asked by a farmer from the rural districts what this "talk of the new policy on the part of the Democracy meant," replied: "We propose to take the rotten eggs from under the old Democratic hen, upon which she has been setting for the last six years without hatching anything, and gave her a lot of fresh eggs out of which to hatch a rousing victory." There seems to be some difficulty in making the old hen set on fresh eggs.

—Some day ago a little boy in Virginia was killed by the bite of a rattlesnake. The little fellow had gone out with some other members of the family to look for eggs, and in his search he crawled underneath his father's barn. After going some distance under the floor he screamed to his companions that something was killing him. They obtained assistance, and ripped up the planks of the floor, when to their horror they found a large rattlesnake had tightly coiled around his neck. The snake had bitten him in several places on the face and neck, and he was quite dead when taken up.

—The Lacrosse Democrat lifts its bruised head and bites the heel of the New Departure: "It is hard for us to ascertain what the Democracy and dissatisfied Republicans are to gain by voting for Radical principles under the name of "New Departure Democracy." If Radicalism is right, let the party that invented it administer it, say we. The office-seeking Democracy of Ohio have entered into an arrangement by which the State is to be given to the Republicans this Fall by a large majority. The real Democracy may wake up in time for the campaign of 1871."

—A strange coincidence is found in the columns of the Ashland (Ohio) Times. In a little village not far from Ashland a wedding party had assembled. The bride was in readiness, and the bridegroom momentarily expected. A few moments before the hour appointed for the ceremony, there came a message saying that he who was so soon to have taken upon himself the marriage vow, had been suddenly stricken down by the strong hand of death. The strangest part of the story is thus told by the Times:

Some time previous to the circumstances related above, the young folks of the village gave a dramatic entertainment, for the purpose of raising money to purchase an organ for their church. The play which they presented was entitled "The Irish Girl's Disappointment." The betrothed couple took an active part in the performance, the young lady playing the character of the Irish girl, and the young man that of her lover. In the closing scene they were to be married, and in the scene, like the actual occurrence in real life, he was to die a few minutes before the ceremony. Thus strange are the vagaries of human destiny.

FOR SALE.
A Very Rare Chance!
The undersigned offers for sale his nice little FARM, situated in the borough of Fallston, Beaver county, Pa., containing about sixteen acres, with a good Frame House, four rooms and a good cellar underneath; and other outbuildings thereon. The greater part of the place is set out with different kinds of choice fruit trees and plants, viz: 525 full bearing, ever-bearing Raspberry plants in best condition; 1000 to 1200 young Raspberry plants of the same kind; 1000 Lennds (called Zoo) Strawberry plants; 500 first quality Grapevines (fifteen different kinds) 300 bearing this year, 200 next year, the rest in two years; 120 Hunting Seedling Gooseberry bushes, and a variety of Current bushes. Besides, there are 200 various kinds of fruit trees—about 175 bearing—Apples, Peaches, Pears, Plums, Cherries, Quinces, Siberian Crab and Mulberry—every kind that the heart desires. All the above mentioned trees and plants are of the best quality. On from 7 to 8 acres of hillside, at present a pasture lot, a Coal-bank and Stone-quarry could be opened. Two inexhaustible springs of water are on the place. Schools and Churches near by, and as good a market in New Brighton as in Pittsburgh, if not better.
Buyers are requested to call in time and see the place themselves and be convinced of the advantages it presents, as it will be sold within two months without further delay, at very low figures. This is a very rare chance to buy cheap and secure money at big interest. For further particulars inquire of the owner upon the premises.
CHAS. J. KNAUR.
N. B. Full instructions will be given in regard to cultivating and raising plants to those who have no experience in fruit cultivation; for them from $1,000 to 15,000 plants on the premises to be made ready for sale. jel1:6w

A Serious and Probably Fatal Accident.—An accident befel Mr. Jacob Bruce, a wealthy and highly esteemed old gentleman of Hopewell township, this county, on last Wednesday, which may result in the loss of his life. The particulars, as they have been related to us are as follows: On the day named, Mr. Bruce was riding from his farm to New Sheffield, and on the way met a neighbor, who was also on horseback. The two stopped and commenced a conversation, at about which time their horses began to fight. In trying to pull them away from each other the girth of the saddle on Mr. Bruce's horse broke, and the old gentleman fell to the ground. He still held on to the bridle, and while doing so the horse stepped upon his face, crushing it so badly as to burst one of his eyes. At last accounts his life was despaired of.

Fourth of July.—Our exchanges are all advocating a proper observance of our National holiday, we would also suggest the propriety of appropriately observing this day. It should not be allowed to pass by in default. Let us have an old-fashioned celebration of the coming fourth of July, one that will recall to memory the manner in which it was celebrated in the day of "auld lang syne."

Something for School Directors and Teachers.—All our best teachers and most prudent directors unite in the opinion that, to teach geography with success and efficiency, Wall Maps are essential; and that at least one year's instruction should be given, to beginners, exclusively from maps before text books are placed in their hands. No school should be without a set of good maps. No good teacher will teach without them, it possible to persuade directors to buy maps. E. L. The Mercer Dispatch says the "Alixia" limp is the latest agony with the young ladies of that place. Shaved heads are becoming the rage with the young men. We notice several who have had their hair broken off and their heads sand-papered until they resemble a mouse in color, and a rutabaga in appearance.

The Steamer Juniata, was for some time past at Rochester waiting for water to go up to Pittsburgh. On Wednesday last she attempted to go up, but in Rowley's channel, opposite the mouth of Chartier's Creek, she ran out of coal and grounded. Toward evening George Ford, the barkeeper of the boat, accompanied by three other men, started out with the yawl to get some coal. After going a short distance the yawl sunk and Ford came near drowning. All were rescued, however. The Juniata is still aground in the channel, opposite the residence of Mr. McGonnigle.

We invite our friends to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere. Orders carefully and promptly filled. JOHN STEVENSON'S SONS & Co., 93 Market St., Pittsburgh. [je7-1y.

An Important Experiment, it is said, is about to made in the construction of coal barges for the Ohio River coal trade. Messrs. Graft, Bennet & Co., and Messrs. Douglass & Son, of Pittsburgh are about to construct barges of iron. It is claimed that one so constructed will carry as great an amount of coal, and draw, probably, less water. The first named firm is to furnish the new plates, which are to be of iron, the sides of which will be five-sixteenth inch plates, and the bottom three-eighth inch plates, and the barge is to be 100 feet long by twenty feet wide. So great is the confidence of these builders in the success of the enterprise that the experiment is to be tried at their own risk.

If you desire rosy cheeks and complexion fair and free from Pimples, Blotches and Eruptions, purify your blood by taking Dr. Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. It has no equal for this purpose, nor as a remedy for "Liver Complaint," or "Biliousness." Sold by all druggists.

About Cows and Ground Hogs.

—A Kendall, Beaver county correspondent of the Conservative says:

Kendall claims to have the champion cow in the county. She gives seven gallons and one pint of rich milk per day. She is the property of John Bigger, esq. Who can beat this?

Ground hogs are very plenty in some parts of the South Side this spring. One man alone on a single farm in Hanover township, has killed sixty-nine of these pests, and hasn't them near all killed yet.

Watch Repairing.—If your watch is out of order, send it to JOHN STEVENSON'S Sons & Co., Pittsburgh, it will be repaired and returned free of express charges. All work warranted. [je7-1y.

Lubricating Oil.—Thomas Burton, formerly editor of the Beaver Local, now agent of an Oil Refinery at Smith's Ferry, sent us a keg of lubricating oil from that establishment, which we use on our power presses. It is the best we have ever used. It does not gum up, and stiffen the running of the machinery, as was the case with every oil we used prior to obtaining this. It has body, and works to a charm. We advise those wishing a lubricating oil, to purchase from the Smith's Ferry Refinery.

Watches. Watches.—The most complete line in the city of Pittsburgh, and all the necessary attachments, to be had of JOHN STEVENSON'S SONS & Co., 93 Market St., Pittsburgh. [je7-1y.

Revenue Assessors.—Since General Pleasanton came into office up to the 1st of January last he had reduced the force of assistant assessors from 2,400 to 1,600, and since that time a gradual reduction has continued, so that by the end of this fiscal year (June 30), the force of assistant assessors will not exceed 1,400. The reduction of taxes now limits the collection mainly to whisky, malt liquors, tobacco, cigars, and stamp duties, so that the assistant assessors hereafter will be required to act more in the capacity of collectors than as clerks. Commissioner Pleasanton has addressed a circular letter to all internal revenue officers, calling their attention to the further reduction of assistant assessors.

Golden Fountain Pen.—Something new and novel. Be sure and read the advertisement in our paper headed "Greatest Invention of the Age." We believe the Golden Fountain Pen is unsurpassed. A good pen is a necessity to every man, woman and child. Agents here is a chance to make money in introducing a good and saleable article. 1y.

IMPORTANT TO FARMERS.—In consequence of the present excited state of the wool market, woolen goods in the east are rapidly advancing in price. We would suggest to our friends in the country that it would be wise to save a part of their wool this season, and have it made into such blankets, stocking yarn, cassimeres, flannels, &c., as they may need for home use. The place to get such work done cheaply and satisfactorily, is at the factory of Mr. Joseph Pontefract, Fallston, Beaver county, Pa. Any wool left with him will receive every attention. [je21-4w.

Bitten by a Stallion.—A correspondent of the Waynesburg Messenger says that Clinton Squire, of East Finley township, Washington county, was considerably injured by a stallion biting him through the fore part of the leg, above the knee, on Wednesday, 31st ultimo, about two miles from Graysville. Mr. Squire had been lashing the horse for some vicious conduct, when the enraged animal seized him as before stated, and raising him from his feet, as a dog would a squirrel; and if other parties had not been present to rescue him, he would probably have killed him. He was taken to his home on the evening of the same day, but it will be many weeks, probably, before he will be able to be about.

DRY GOODS.—Our readers are referred to the card in to-day's paper of Messrs. Boggs & Buhl, No. 128 Federal street, Allegheny. This firm is now offering special bargains to cash purchasers, and we would advise all such to give them a call.

The M. E. Church.—Bishop Morris, senior bishop of the M. E. Church, now residing in Springfield, Ohio, writes to a paper in New York on his seventy-seventh birthday, and gives some interesting facts respecting the history of the church to which he belongs. In 1813 when he entered the ministry, there were no literary institutions in the church; now of the different classes, there are 101, with 100 teachers and 25,000 pupils. In 1817 there were but few houses of worship of any value; "now she is building over one church a day on an average, and more durable structures. She has already invested in churches and parsonages more than seven millions of dollars. There were in 1813 no Sabbath Schools in the M. E. Church now she has 16,912 Sabbath Schools, embracing 189,412 officers and teachers and 1,221,393 scholars, with 1,759,122 volumes in her libraries." When he united with the church, her communicants were less than a quarter of a million; now, notwithstanding nearly one-half of her membership went into the M. E. Church South, and others went into various other organizations, she has 1,367,1 4 members.

50,000 pounds wool wanted, at the Fallston Woolen Factory, for which the highest market price will be paid in cash, Joseph Pontefract. [je21-4w.

Chautauqua Lake.—A friend writing from Chautauqua Lake, New York says: "This beautiful lake is fast gaining favor with the public as a summer resort. The lake proper, is twenty miles long, with, perhaps, an average width of two miles; is over two thousand feet above the level of the sea and seven hundred above Lake Erie; the atmosphere is clear and healthy, and for asthmatic diseases, is an almost certain 'remedy.' The lake abounds in fish of various kinds and the surrounding woods furnish sport and pastime for the marksman. Quite a number of good hotels may be found along this lake, amongst which the 'Fluvanna House,' at Fluvanna, three miles from Jamestown, seems to be a favorite resort. It has a favorable location on the lake shore and has recently been re-built and re-furnished, and the proprietor, Mr. H. A. Whittemore, spares no pains to make his guests feel at home. It is decidedly a well kept, orderly, temperance House. Carriages to and from the Railroad at Jamestown daily. Let those who desire to find a quiet and romantic retreat during the summer months, try 'Chautauqua Lake,' either for pleasure or in pursuit of health"

Court Adjourned.—The county court adjourned on last Wednesday afternoon. In addition to passing upon the applications for license, the result of which was published in the last ARGUS, the following criminal cases were disposed of:

Commonwealth vs. George White. Indictment, Assault. Verdict not guilty, on account of insanity of defendant at the time the offence was committed.

Same vs. James Harbison. Indictment, Assault and Battery. Verdict of guilty, and sentenced to pay a fine of $10 and costs.

Same vs. Wm. Cheney. Indictment, Fornication and Bastardy. Verdict of guilty.

Same vs. Judson Craighead. Indictment, False Pretense. Verdict of not guilty.

Same vs. J. S. McCoy. Charge of desertion. Judgment reserved.

MONEY WANTED, for which a mortgage on sixteen acres of excellent and highly improved land will be given. Inquire at the ARGUS office. [je21-2w.

Whining.—There is a class of persons in this world, by no means small, whose prominent peculiarity is whining. They whine because they are poor; or if they are rich, because they have no health to enjoy their riches. They whine because it is too shiny; they whine because it is too rainy; they whine because they have "no luck," and other's prosperity exceeds theirs; they whine because some friends have died and they are still living; they whine because they have aches and pains, and they have aches and pains because they whine, and they whine no one can tell why. Now, we would like to say a word to these whining persons:—Stop whining! It is of no use, this everlasting complaining, fretting, scolding, faultfinding, and whining. Why, you are the most deluded set of creatures that ever lived. Do you not know that it is a well settled principle of physiology and common sense that these habits are more exhausting to nervous vitality than almost any other violation of the physiological law? And do you not know that life is pretty much as you take it and make it. You can make it bright and sunshiny, or you can make it dark and shadowy. This life is only meant to discipline us—to fit us for a higher and purer state of being. Then stop whining and fretting, and go on your way rejoicing.

A FACT.—It is an undisputed fact that Mrs. Bence's Hats and Bonnets are universal favorites. She has just received another lot of Hats, Bonnets, Flowers, &c. Give her an early call, one door below U. P. Seminary, Beaver. je7-3w

Railroad Travelers.—The following "rules of the road" are based upon legal decisions, and ought to be universally known. The courts have decided that applicants for tickets on railroads can be ejected if they do not offer the exact amount of their fare. Conductors are not bound to make change. All railroad tickets are good until used, conditions "good for this day only" or otherwise admitting time of genuineness, are of no account. Passengers who lose their tickets can be ejected from the cars unless they purchase a second one. Passengers are bound to observe decorum in the cars, and are obliged to comply with all reasonable demands to show their tickets. Standing on the platform, or otherwise violating the rules of the company, renders a person liable to be put from the train. No person has a right to monopolize more seats than he has paid for; and any article left in the seat while the owner is temporarily absent entitles him to it on his return.

An immense stock of New and Domestic Goods for Ladies, Gents and Children. Ladies and Gentlemen will be interested in examining the large and complete assortments we now offer of Ladies' and Children's Cotton Stockings, from six cents a pair up to finest and best made; extra bargains in all. Stock more complete than ever before and lower than Pittsburgh prices, at J. M. McCreery & Co's.

Messrs. McGee and Neely, the Allegheny license Commissioners, lately convicted of having received bribes, have been sent to the Work House, and assigned cells in the lower range. The Superintendent says they are to be treated precisely like the other prisoners. On Wednesday they were both considerably indisposed, and were under the care of the physician. When they are sufficiently recovered Mr. Neely will probably be put in the Steward's department, and Mr. McGee put to work at his trade.

Clocks, Clocks, Clocks.—American Clocks; full stock; newest styles; lowest prices. JOHN STEVENSON'S SONS & Co., 93 Market St., Pittsburgh. [je7-1y.]

New Cigar and Tobacco Store.—Mr. C. A. Decarme, who is known in this community as a first-class cigar maker, has opened a shop in the west end of the "Clark Hotel" property, where he will be happy to wait upon all who desire anything in his line. His brands of cigars and tobacco, are No. 1, and his prices moderate. Give him a call and "see how it is yourself."

BEAVER VALLEY ITEMS.

—A Literary and Benevolent Association composed of members of the congregation of St. Joseph's Church, New Brighton, under the auspices of Rev. J. C. Bigham, has been formed. Their hall is well fitted up and supplied with a library of rare works. It is well conducted, and promises much benefit and instruction to its members.

—A distressing death of a child, two years old, is recorded in the New-Brighton Press of the 16th inst. Mrs. McDonald, of that place was employed in washing, on Tuesday of last week, and had concentrated lye dissolved in a cup within reach of the child, who being thirsty grasped and swallowed it before it could be prevented. The result was great anguish, and resulting death in a short time subsequently.

—John Rhodes, brother of Prof. Rhodes of Phillipsburg, this county, was stabbed last week, by some unknown person, while sitting in the door of the school house in that village. It is thought he will recover.

—The Beaver Falls Postoffice was entered on Wednesday night last and robbed of about $25.

—On Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, the examination of the classes, and closing exercises of the Spring term of the New Brighton Seminary took place. They had a picnic at Homewood Grove, where the literary exercises—declamations, orations and essays—were had. They had a good time, and were a credit to themselves and their Principals—Mr. Johnston and Lady. The merit of the Institution over which they preside commends it to public favor.

THE popularity of merchants often has to be bought in different ways; sometimes gained on account of queer devices; but all this sham popularity generally fades away in a few years, especially where merchants take advantage of their customers and sell trash goods for an No. 1 article. This is not practiced at the clothing house of R. Steinfeld, Broadway New Brighton. He has a practical cutter of twenty years' experience, and every one can rely upon him in getting a well fitting garment; and, regarding prices, he knows no one can undersell him, as he does not depend upon the profit of the clothing business, and he is therefore determined to sell goods at such figures as must insure his popularity as the cheapest clothing store in Beaver county.

EXTRA great bargains are offered now at M. Schiff's, Broadway, New Brighton, in dry goods, notions and fancy goods. He has just received a lot of summer poplins, which he is selling at from 25 to 35 cents per yard, wash poplin at 20 cents per yard, soft finish yard wide bleached muslin at 12½ cents per yard, nice toweling at 10 cents, gingham at 10 cents, ticking at 10 cents, all wool cassimere at 75 cents, Kentucky jean at 35 cents, cottonades at 22 cents, splendid ladies' ribbed hose at ten cents per pair, good men's sock's at 25 cents for three pair, whalebone corsets at 75 cents, all colors kid gloves at $1.

BLACK AND GOLD FRONT.—To those of our readers visiting Pittsburgh to make selections of watches, clocks, jewelry and fancy goods, we commend Geo. W. Biggs, 159 Smithfield street. His stock is all new, and every article sold warranted as represented.

The Republicans of Butler county held their County Convention, June 12th. Great harmony characterized the proceedings. The following ticket was nominated:

Assembly.—Capt. G. W. Fleeger.
Associate Judge.—Daniel Fiedler.
Treasurer.—Francis Anderson.
County Com.—R. F. Garvin.
District Attorney.—W. S. Black.
Surveyor.—A. M. Slator.
Auditor.—Elliott Robb.

Resolutions endorsing Grant, Geary, Fleeger, M'Junkin and the platform of the Harrisburg Convention were adopted.

TROTTING WAGONS.—A large stock of our own and Eastern make for sale, by Workman & Davis, 59 Federal street, Allegheny City.

Daniel Keck, of West Salem township, Mercer county, is 86 years of age. He was a soldier of the war of 1812, and was a participant in Perry's Victory on Lake Erie. The old man still enjoys good health and only a few days ago went to Greenville to make application for back pay recently granted by Congress, to soldiers of the war of 1812.

BUCK AND JENNET WAGONS, in every style and finish, at low prices, at Workman & Davis', 59 Federal street, Allegheny City.

An Important Suggestion.—A great many deaths occur to persons who descend into wells from inhaling the poisonous gases which are liable to accumulate at the bottom of wells. A simple remedy against this is to throw into the well, before making the descent a quantity of burned but unslacked lime. This, when it comes in contact with whatever water is below, sets free a great quantity of heat in the water and lime, which rushes upward, carrying all the deleterious gas with it, after which the descent may be made with perfect safety. The lime also absorbs carbonic acid in the well.

BUGGIES AND BAROUCHES.—A large stock of our own and Eastern make for sale, by Workman & Davis, 59 Federal street, Allegheny City.

Truth in Brief.—Anybody can soil the reputation of an individual, however pure and chaste, by uttering a suspicion that his enemies will believe and his friends never hear of. A puff of the idle wind can take a million of the seeds of a thistle, and do a work of mischief which the husband-man must labor long to undo, the floating particles being too fine too be seen and too light to be stopped. such are the seeds of slander, so easily sown, so difficult to be gathered up, and yet so pernicious in their fruits. The slanderer knows that many a mind will catch up the plague and become poisoned by his insinuations, without ever seeking the antidote. No reputation can refute a sneer, nor any human skill prevent mischief.

WORKMAN & DAVIS have on hand a large stock of Light Wagons, Buggies, Carriages, Buck and Jersey Wagons, for sale at low prices by wholesale or finish. 59 Federal street, Allegheny City.

Table Conversation.—A great deal of character is received and imparted at the table. Parents too often forget this; and therefore instead of swallowing your food in sullen silence, instead of brooding over your business, instead of severely talking about others, let the conversation be genial, kind, social and cheering. Do not bring disagreeable things to the table in your conversation any more than you would in your dishes. For this reason the more good company that you have at your table, the better it will be for your children. Every conversation that you have with company at your table is an educator for your family. Hence the intelligence and refinement, and the appropriate behavior of a family which is given to hospitality. Never feel that intelligent visitors can be anything but a blessing to you and to yours. How few have fully gotten hold of the fact that company and conversation form no small part of education!

MISS TUTTLE.—The Lady has just opened her new store on Main street, Beaver Falls, with a very large and carefully selected stock of Ladies' and Children's Suits of all styles in Linen and Lawns, also all the latest novelties in Millinery Goods, Laces, Ribbons, &c., &c. Miss Tuttle has had long experience in Pittsburgh and Eastern cities, and has made extensive arrangements with Eastern Houses to have all the latest Goods and styles as they appear East.

We wish her every success and we are confident the people of Beaver county will support her in her new enterprise.

SOMETHING FOR HOUSEKEEPERS.—Red Turkey Damask, Red Turkey Napkins; Canary colored Tablecloths and Napkins; Handsome Willow Table Mats; The Anti-moth Stair Pads; White Linen Window Blinds and Trimmings; Window Blinds in all colors; Working Baskets; Carpets, Oil Cloths, Rugs, Matting, Lace Curtains, Tidies, lower than Pittsburgh prices, at J. M. McCreery & Co's.

The Erie Dispatch of Wednesday says:

Yesterday, while the Warren accommodation was stopping at Youngville, on the P. & E. Railroad, a quiet-looking personage entered the car and took a seat along side of an Irishman, who generously gave him room. The cars were thundering along at about their regular speed, between Spring Creek and Corry when, without warning, the passengers were startled by the man who had got on at Youngville raising out of his seat and making a drive for the open window. His body passed through the window, and in an instant more would have been crushed, but for the presence of mind of his Irish fellow traveler, who grappled for the receding fleeband legs, and succeeded in holding the man, head down and full length along the flying car's side, until assistance was rendered by the other passengers, who dragged the man into the car again. After he had been hauled in, the man looked around for a moment, and then took a seat and remained quiet until the train reached Corry, where he was left.

Big Yield.—Last week we noticed some tall rye, grown on the farm of B. D. Deeds, Raccoon township, this county. There were 85 stalks from one grain; measuring 90 feet in length of stalk. Mr. Deeds has since counted the grain, and finds the aggregate 9,180 grains.

Another Cow Killed by a Locomotive.—Mr. Louis Bence of Beaver, suffered to the extent of losing a seventy-five dollar cow last week, by being run over by a train of cars on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad.

A Fatal Affray in Wellsville.—On last Wednesday evening, a brakesman on the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, named Daniel Smith, killed the landlord of the "Missouri House," in that place. We have not received full particulars, but understand that Smith was intoxicated, and desired to enter the Hotel. The landlord ordered him to stay out, whereupon Smith seized a baseball club which the landlord held in his hand, wrenched it from him, dealing him a blow on the head with it, and knocking his brains out. The hotel keeper died in a minute or two afterwards. Smith is now in hands of the officers of the law. He is said to be respectably connected, but strong drink has been his ruin. He is well-known to a number of the citizens of Beaver, having been in the habit of attending our county fairs for several years past.

Hand Bills.—The legislature at its last session passed an act by which a heavy fine is inflicted on those guilty of mutilating or tearing down hand bills. There are some persons about Beaver who will please take notice.

An Attractive Summer Resort.—The Watkins Glen [including a half-mile section hitherto inaccessible to the public] and the "Glen Mountain House" connected with this attractive and popular Summer resort, are open for the season of 1871, and already thronged with visitors. The pathway, railings, bridges and "resting places" are reported to be in excellent and safe condition, and the Mountain House—under the superintendence of Joshua Jones, formerly, for many years proprietor of the celebrated Arbor Hotel, at Elmira, N. Y.,—has been refitted and newly furnished, and is in complete order for the reception and accommodation of guests, and the furnishing of unlimited refreshments to transient parties. The principle visitation months are June, July, August, September and October.

The famous Watkins Glen located at the head of Seneca Lake, Watkins, Schuyler Co., has become one of the most popular Summer resorts in America. Last year the number of visitors reached 50,000 and an increase of 10,000 to 20,000 is anticipated during the season of 1871.

NEW GOODS, NEW GOODS, at Will Smith & Co.'s, Madison street, and H. S. Hibbard's, New York street, Rochester, Pa. je14-2w

A steam wagon for common roads is about being practically tested at Troy, N. Y. Ill 1855, Sir James Anderson constructed a vehicle of this description weighing nearly three tons, which when loaded with fifteen passengers, was propelled over a rough and uneven road at a speed averaging ten or fifteen miles an hour. All the attempts of the past have failed of success, but the Troy gentleman believes he has mastered all difficulties, and that his vehicle will answer the purpose intended.

Are You Insured?—IF NOT, WHY NOT?—The cost is trifling, the duty is manifest. The result may be your escape from ruin, while delay and neglect may involve you in irretrievable disaster, bankruptcy, poverty and cruel disappointment. Property of the value of $250,000 is consumed by fire daily, in the United States. The danger from stoves and pipes, defective chimneys and flues, oils, lights, accidents, neglect, carelessness, matches, explosions and other causes are constant and far from trifling. Every one, the burning of whose property would injure or inconvenience himself, his family, or his neighbor, should be insured. Select with care. Insure in those companies that have the reputation of paying claims honestly and promptly.

INSURE TO-DAY.—"Procrastination is the Thief of Time," and "Time is Money." This putting off from day to day, produces a fatally false feeling of security, and finally the idea of Insurance is abandoned. A man of immense wealth may, in one sense, dispense with insurance, but those of moderate or limited means cannot afford to have property swept away in an hour which has cost years to acquire.

INSURE IN A FIRST CLASS COMPANY.—1st. It creates independence and prevents the paying a tax on one's friends. It is evidence of prudence. 3d. It saves anxiety. 4th. It stimulates security. 5th. It favors accumulation, encourages wealth, assists business credit, rebuilds and obliterates the ruins. It is a blessing to the unfortunate, reinforces the wealthy, and helps along the busy, grand old world. Therefore, insure at once. Put it not off until to-morrow. To-morrow may be too late. The "Red Cent's" History.—As the old "red cent" has now passed out of use, and, except rarely, out of sight, like the "old oaken bucket," its history is a matter of sufficient interest for preservation. The cent was first proposed by Robert Morris, the great financier of the Revolution, and was named by Jefferson two years after. It began to make its appearance from the mint in 1792. It bore the head of Washington on one side and thirteen links on the other. The French revolution soon created a rage for French ideas in America, which put on the cent, instead of the head of Washington, the head of the Goddess of Liberty—a French liberty, with flowing locks. The chain on the reverse was replaced by the olive wreath of peace. But the French liberty was short lived, and so was her portrait on our cent. The next head or figure succeeding this—the best hair—came into fashion about thirty or forty years ago, and her finely chiseled Grecian features have been but slightly altered in the lapse of time.

ROCHESTER, June 18th, 1871.

To the Editor of the Argus:

I see by your paper of the 14th inst., some antiquarian has been at some pains to make a list of the ages, &c., of persons in and about this place, and in some instances wide off the mark, for instance, two sisters are of the same age. It has never been chalmed they were twins and how your informant came to the conclusion to make them the same age, I am not able to determine, unless it be on the principle that young folks now live faster than the old ones. As for myself, I suppose he is one who is always inquiring about other person's business, and the same person who a short time since, asked me my age. I told him if I lived until the 30th day of February, I would be ninety-four. Now if the gentleman had as much sense as he had inquisitiveness, or had consulted his almanac, he might have seen the point. But to save him and others who seem to take an interest in the matter, if they will commence on the 19th day of February, A. D. 1797, and calculate to this date, they will arrive much nearer my true age. Yours,
J. A. SHOLES.

The Soldiers' Orphans.

The following circular will explain itself:

OFFICIAL CIRCULAR, No. 1.
SCHOOL DEP'T., ORPHAN SCHOOLS,
Harrisburg, June 1, 1871.

To the Principals and Managers of the Soldiers' Orphans' Schools and Homes:

By an act of the Legislature, approved May 27, 1871, the undersigned has been entrusted with the supervision of the Soldiers' Orphans of the Commonwealth, with whom, from the present date, all official business appertaining thereto must be transacted.

While this delicate trust has not been sought, coming, as it is believed it does, with the good will of all concerned, it is assumed with a full sense of its importance, and the most sincere desire to administer it in such a way as to secure the orphans of our dead heroes the greatest measure of good possible from a benefaction, which, in the breadth of its liberality has no parallel in the history of this or any other country. In this noble work, I hope to have the active and earnest co-operation of all concerned in the management of the trust, and the sympathy of the public.

The immediate attention of those interested is asked to the following special directions:

1. All clothing for the pupils in the several institutions will hereafter be furnished by the principal or managers of the same, subject, as to its kind, quality and quantity, to the control of the Superintendent. Accounts for clothing, when presented for settlement, must be accompanied by sworn statements as to their accuracy.

2. All clothing to be purchased for the quarter commencing with the date hereof, will be substantially the same, in kind, as heretofore. Such changes as it shall be found advisable to make, will be made known in time to carry them into effect at the beginning of the quarter commencing September next.

3. All children now in the schools over sixteen years of age, and all others as soon as they reach that age, must be promptly discharged. No exception can be made, under the present law, in favor of those who have been in the schools a less time than two years.

4. The vacation for the present year will commence on Friday, July 28th, and continue until Friday, September 8th. The annual examination at the several schools will take place during one or three weeks preceding the vacation.

5. A meeting of principals, managers inspectors and others interested in the Soldiers' Orphan schools will be called at an early day at Harrisburg.

6. The Superintendent expects to be able to visit every institution in the State in which there are soldiers' orphans under instruction, before the coming vacation. Having prepared, in 1864, at the request of Governor Curtin, the original plan for the education and maintenance of soldiers' orphans, after which, in their main features, all subsequent plans have been modeled, he feels not only a formal or public, but a deep personal interest in the success of the system, and will do all in his power to promote it.

J. P. WICKERSHAM,
Superintendent.

How to be Nobody.—The following rules are full of the severe irony of truth. Strictly obeyed they will secure to any boy or young man the bitterest failure that his worst enemy could wish:

Spend your leisure time on a whisky barrel. Drink as much as you can pay for, or get others to pay for, or on credit. Smoke cigars in the same ratio. Master the intricacies of dominoes, billiards, and chequers; above all things, make yourself an adept at card playing. Chess, the game of young intelligent men who foolishly desire to be somebody, you should eschew.

Don't read anything except the dime novels of the day. Cultivate an impression that all women like to be insulted, and that all men are slaves. If you should ever become conscious of a decent emotion—to which weakness, alas! the most of us are liable at odd moments—crush it out with little impromptu blackguardism, or drown it in a horn of whisky.

Make fun of your mother behind her back, and never think—because thinking is dangerous—of how much she has done for you, hoped for you, prayed for you.

Rob your father, and borrow your sister's little savings.

Do these things, and whatever else of vile and worthless that shall suggest itself to you, and your ambition will be sated. You shall stagger and wagger through life, foot-loose and fancy-free, despised, and tumble into your grave almost too loathsome to be pitied.—Gospels Banner.

Beaver Seminary and Institute.—The Commencement exercises of the Beaver Seminary and Institute will take place the last week of June as follows: Sunday, June 25th, 3½ o'clock p. m., the annual sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. P. Turner, of East Liverpool, Ohio. Monday evening, June 26th, annual address by Rev. C. W. Smith, of Allegheny City. Tuesday evening, June 27th, vocal and instrumental concert. Wednesday evening, June 28th, an address to the alumni, by Miss Mollie Walker, of Washington, D. C. Thursday evening, June 29th,

THE LOST CAUSE REDIVIVUS!

Speech of Jeff. Davis in Atlanta, Ga. —Bold Defence of the Rebellion.

MR. DAVIS' SPEECH.

MY FRIENDS:—As I look out upon the surging crowd before me to-night, swayed by the sleep-felt and strong-hearted impulse of enthusiasm and welcome, my feelings are those of peculiar pleasure, gratitude and pride; for I realize the fact that this tribute is not offered to any worth or merit of my own, but is an expression of sentiment upon the part of the people of this State. Georgia has a noble and worthy record. You have been true to your history and to yourselves since the old colonial time. The people of Georgia were true to their history and to themselves in the old colonial struggle of 1776. They were true to their history and to themselves when they adhered to the principles of liberty and independence in the war of 1812, and you, the descendants of our worthy and illustrious ancestors, during the last great conflict in which you were engaged, were true to your history, true to yourselves and true to the great

PRINCIPLES OF CONSTITUTIONAL LIBERTY,

in the defence of which our forefathers fought and died; and so long as your rivers roll from the mountains to the sea, so long as the waters rise from the sea and flow backward in the mountains, will these lines we have just heard go sounding down to future ages, and children will rise up and imitate the virtues of their forefathers. [Applause.] It was for these great principles that our forefathers fought in the olden days. It was these principles for which Oglethorpe contended, and since his illustrious day until this hour the record of your proud Commonwealth is without a stain. [Applause.] There are many things which I might say to-night, my friends, but which I feel it would be imprudent for me to utter. If I should speak to you of the past I should speak of memories that are sad. If I should speak to you of the present it would be to recount a tale of tyranny and wrong that we have not the power to redress, and under which, therefore, it is more manly and noble for us to fold our arms and suffer with quiet patient dignity. If I speak of the future, then, I am liable to be misrepresented, and you hold responsible for every speculation that I may chance to utter. But, my friends, as I stand here to-night and look upon your kindly, honest faces, I feel that there are a few plain words that may be received by you as the expression in regard to the future. Then, I say, I despair not of your liberty, I despair not of the triumph of liberty. I believe that truth will live eternally, and that wrong cannot always endure. When Galileo was bound to the torture rack for asserting this theory that the world was a globe and turned upon its axis and was there forced to recant as soon as the screw was relaxed he cried out of the deep and irresistible convictions of his soul. "But still it moves." And so the great truths uttered by your fathers still lives, and the principles they enunciated and for what they contended still move and will once more be felt, if you will but be true to the right. Let no one say I counsel a recovery, and an enjoyment of these principles by the red hand of battle. I trust that I may not be misrepresented on this point. I shall die in the firm faith and belief that

THE ERA OF TRUE LIBERTY.

Will ere long down upon the South. If they who carried the victorious banner and exulted in the strength of their triumph could have known, when you came forward and said that you had given up your armies and were now ready to submit to the laws of the land, and could have understood how true your word was, how high were your principles of honor, it would not have been necessary to exact harsh pledges and to pass oppressive laws to blind you. [Applause.] Force should never have been exerted when the unimpeachable word of a Georgian was pledged, for the world cannot furnish bayonets enough to maken Georgian prove more faithful to his obligations than his oath could do. [Applause.] Peaceful, then, you are desirous of being to-day; peaceful, you have been, peaceful you are ever. When human patience has sometime given way there are those who sometimes take the law into their own hands, because there is no justice to be secured in any other way; but these are mere accidental occasions. There is no organization in the South—there never was—whose purpose is resistance to the Government. [A voice—"That's so." Though we are compelled to submit to the pressure of power, yet our manhood and our self-respect can be preserved. Peace is what we hope for.

PEACE WE DESIRE,

And peace we will have. I have nothing to say to you to-night of politics, and, my friends I hope you have nothing to do with them. You have political power, and its exercise is only postponed until the coming of that event which I certainly anticipate—the restoration of your constitutional rights. [Applause.] Let us, then, stand still and quietly await developments. The men of the North, like yourselves, love their government and understand their rights, and men of the North have no idea of surrendering, in their own country, those great bulwarks of constitutional liberty, the right of trial by jury, the right to elect their own officers, and the right to determine their own internal policy, and as soon as their prejudices and hatred against the South are removed and they see that by the unlawful action of those in power toward the South those sacred rights of theirs are in danger of being invaded

THEY WILL BECOME YOUR ADJUNCTS

And you hold the balance of power and in that hour your power will be great and your success will be great. [Applause.] I have said, and I here repeat it, that I despair not of the restoration of our liberties. They are not ours only: they are equally the liberties of the people of the North and the South, and when they at the North see that laws are made for their oppression, do you not believe that the men who descended from Revolutionary sires will raise their voice against them? Do you not believe that when they come to look calmly upon the question between the North and South they will form parties and platforms upon which you can stand? And when that hour comes then will come the fulfillment of the promised era of constitutional liberty, which I so confidently anticipate and hope for to-day. I may not live to see it; but if I do not, I shall die confidently believing that it will come, I know, my friends, that in this I run counter to the feelings that are prevalent in different portions of our country, but I believe this is the true policy for the South to pursue at the present. The South cannot hasten the day of her deliverance by attempting to assume a leading part in the politics of the country to-day. Let her people quietly and earnestly devote themselves to the work of improving and building up their material prosperity, leaving those who have the power, to settle these questions among themselves, simply saying to them, "We know our rights—know they are invaded," and then wait patiently until we see them divided and at issue with themselves, and join the party and support the candidate and the platform that promises a restoration of constitutional liberty. It is then that you will hold the balance of political power in your hands, and it is then that all your rights will once more be restored and guaranteed. [Applause.]

I HAVE SHAKEN HANDS WITH POLITICS.

I am now engaged upon matters of life insurance. [Laughter and applause.] I would like to insure all your lives for a hundred years. [Laughter and applause.] I have therefore, my friends, very quietly presented this opinion which I entertain upon the subject that has been the duty of former years, but not of the present years. I know I can do you no good. I am not engaged in public affairs but I hope to do you some good by showing the world that though I have retired from active public service, yet it is my purpose to serve you, with head and heart and hand, as long as I live. Your interest is mine—not in a mere abstract and general sense, but in that devoted care which I have for your welfare and happiness, and the only reward I ask or seek is that I may live to see all of your political rights restored and the whole South prosperous, independent and happy. [Applause.] Therefore in what I have said I have only spoken of what I consider the best policy for the people of the South, under the present circumstances, to pursue. Let the people of the North take care of themselves. You went to war upon the same questions for which your ancestors and theirs contended in the first revolution against the Government of Great Britain—the right of commercial independence or State sovereignty. You secured it in that first war, and State sovereignty must again be restored or else the Republic of America is a failure. Despotism cannot be exercised under a republican form of government, and my friends, if you wait all will be well. If any of us die before the day of peace and liberty dawns, let us die in the faith that it will come at last. The people of the North will never surrender their rights; and when they see the danger at home then they will need your aid and will come to you, and then you will be crowned with victory and triumphant success [Applause.] I am not of those who "accept the situation."

I ACCEPT NOTHING.

These cant phrases that we hear so much of about "accepting the situation" and about our rights having been submitted to the "arbitrament of the sword" are but the excuses of cowards. [Applause.] I admit that power prevails over truth; I admit that power is so great that it would be folly to resist it, and therefore I am in favor myself, of being acquiescent, and I advise you to the same course, but I do not admit that our rights have ever been submitted to the arbitrament of the sword. Who has the power to submit your liberties to the arbitrament of battle? You never delegated that power to your representatives. I, as your Executive, never claimed it, and never, dying or living, will I admit it. [Applause.] And then, my friends, about this much talked of subject of "accepting the situation." You are not called upon to acknowledge that you have done wrong unless you feel it.

I DON'T BELIEVE I DID ANY WRONG.

And therefore I don't acknowledge it. All that a government has a right to claim from any of its subjects is that they will quietly submit to the law. Liberty and law is their inheritance, and submission to the laws as long as it is such is their duty and their obligation, and it should be their pride. Now my friends, having already said more than I intended, it only remains for me to say how happy I am to see the evidences of prosperity that now surround you. The first time that I saw the place where your city now stands it was little more than a wilderness. When I saw it again I looked upon the blackened and deserted ruins, upon the sad wrecks of noble fortunes, upon desolated hearthstones, and upon a ruined and stricken people. Your city had been devastated and laid waste by an act of Vandalism darker than aught that ever disgraced the fame of Turenne. But I look upon it again to-day, and the traces of desolation and destruction are no longer visible; but in their stead magnificent structures rise upon every hand to make the wonderful advantage of improvement, prosperity and material greatness. I rejoice in it. It is but the beginning of the grand era of prosperity that is yet to come, and I rejoice to see you going on building your railroads, establishing your manufactories, inaugurating new enterprises of commercial profit building up your town, improving your lands and developing the material resources within your reach. You will thus go on increasing until you become wealthy and powerful. I labor in things material because there is little in this that a foreign government can interfere with. Perseverance in this direction; wait quietly and patiently until the tide turns—as, sooner or later, turn it will, and the day is not far distant when the sun will shine upon you a free, independent and sovereign State. [Applause.] With these expressions and with this advice to you I have done. I tell that I cannot fully express my gratitude to you all for the kindness you have manifested towards me, and the heartfelt desire I have that your ways may be ways of pleasantness, that your eyes at last may close upon your country free and your children standing erect, proud representatives of the grand old Commonwealth of Georgia. [Great and prolonged applause.]

Mr. Davis is making a tour of the Southern States, and speaks to excited crowds at every important place. The South is awakening under this inspiration, and the tempest is brewing.

NASBY.

Mr. Nasby and his Friends Second the Movement of Vallandigham—A Meeting in which Mr. Joseph Bigler Takes a Part—The Result.

CONFEDRIT X ROADS,
(which is in the State of Kentucky,)
May, 2f, 1871.

A calm and comprehensive survey uv the politikle field satisfied me, some months ago, that without some shift in the position uv the Dimocrisy, our hope uv success wuz exceedingly thin. The resolooshens introdoost by Vallandygum into the Convenshun of the Dimocrisy uv Montgomery county, Ohio, wuz to me a new life. Troo, they hev the slite disadvantage uv abjoorin everything that is Dimocratic, and uv puttin the Dimocratic party on purely Republikin ground, but wat uv that? I kin stand even so sudden a change ez that. Wat I want is the soopremo happiness uv kickin that nigger Lubbock out uv the postoffice at the Corners, and uv puttin myself in his place, and Kernel McPelter and Elder Pennibacker who hev bin languishin outside the offices uv Assessor and Collector are actooatid by the same high and holy impulses. Er to do this requires the okkypyin uv Republikin ground, the war cry uv us three is "okkepy." Kentucky is shoor to go Democratic anyhow, and if we kin by so simple a process ez pussin resolooshens indoose enuff dissatisfied Republikins in the close Northern States to vote with us to elect a Democratic President who will give us these boons, we three are for pussin these resolooshens no matter wat they are. You will be my understandin uv Vallandygum's movement, I actid onto it by wunst.

I got the leedin Dimocracy uv the Corners together one nite at Rascom's. That I mite get em all at one time, I waited till the regler evenin for the rale on the niggers and portier settlers up towrds Garrettstown; knowin that on their return they'd all stop at Bascom's for a drink, and that ef they'd bin successful in their hangin and burnin they'd be in good humor and ready to adopt anything I should suggest. It was a very short but a very satisfactory consultashen.—There was some oblickshuns on the part uv a few to wat they called an abandonment, uv Dimocratic idees, but Bascom settled their hash in very short meitre. He remarkt that it was necessary that the offices be in the hands uv his friends for obvius reasons. He wantid pay and he knowd uv no other way to git it. He believed in the fullest freedom uv thought and ackshen, and that every one shood express hisself untrameled, but he coodent abide a idiot. If there wuz any one in that assemblage so stoopid ez to differ with him on this question, let him make hisself known! No sich man shood ever git a dropat his bar, never; sich a one wuz not deservin uv even the commonest necessaries uv life. Several who had riz to their feet to object, dropt ez though they hed been shot.

It wuz determined to hold a public meetin the next nite at the church to make a public endorsement uv Vallandygum's idea.

Ez the prinsiple objick of the meetin wuz to convins the Republikins uv the doubtful States that the Dimocrisy uv the South really accepitd the situashen, and meant, in deed earnest, to recognize the great prinsiple uv equality, I arranged to hev all the niggers uv the Corners present, and saved for em the best seats in the house. Joe Bigler and Pollock come, uv course, wich I coodent help.

I opened the exercises by makin a short speech ez I took the chair. I rejoist that the time hed finally arriv when the lion and the lamb hed layed down together and a small child wuz a leadin uv em. I knowd that our colored fellow-citizens hed bin dispitefully yoosed, and that doo respeck hed not bin alluz paid to our fellow-citizens uv the North, but that time hed now passed and I hoped forever. The Dimocrisy uv the North, through Vallandygum, hed spoke, they hed accepted the situashen, hallelooyog, and from this time henceforth and forever there wuz to be nothin but peace. I then offered the follerin resolooshen.

Resolved, That the Dimocrisy of the Yoonited States recognize the legality uv all the amendments made to the Constitoosheen doorin and since the late onpleasantnis, and that they recognize and most heartily acquiesce in all the results uv the war; that they not only withdraw all their opposishen to yooniversal suffrage, but pledge theirselves to see that our Afrikin fellow-citizens hev not only this but all other rites heretofore enjoyed excloosively by the Caucashen.

I put the question ez to the adopshen uv the resolooshen, and it wuz carried yoonanimusly. It wood hev bin well hed I stopped here, but I didn't. My prevailin weeckness is to slop over and I slopt on this okkasion fearfully. I called upon the citizens uv the Corners to prove their faith by their works, "Where are," I said, in a spasm of delite, "present at this meetin twenty-two uv our fellow citizens uv Afrikin descent. Let em step forrerd on this platform—let Deekin Pogram, Elder Pennibacker, Bascom, Issaker Gavitt and eighteen other white citizens step forrerd, also. Let them clasp each other by the hand while I wave over em the flag uv our common kentry."

It wuz done. The twenty-two niggers stepped forrerd, the whites designated advanced, the two lines grasped each other by the hand, and I wuz about to wave, when Joe Bigler riz. He begged me to wait a minit till he hed made his remark. The site afore him moved him almost to teers. Ef he hed ever harbored a suspishen that there wuz'n anything generous in the Kentucky breast he took it all back. The ackshen uv to-nite wuz not only just but it wuz generous.

"Generous!" said I, "why generous?"

"Decoz," sed he, "the niggers wood be in a devlish bad way ef yoo hedn't decided on givin em their rites, uv your own akkord for there ain't no power now that kin compel yoo to do it. I jist got a northern paper—alas! the Republikin party is split into fragments—remarkibly small fragments. Grant assaulted Sumner in the Capitol, last Monday, Logan hez bin stoned by the Republikins uv Philadelfy on his way home, the Control Committees uv Ohio, Injeany and Illinoy have divided, and each fracksheen hez called a conyenshen, and the Noo York Triboon throws up the sponge and sez that nothin under hevin kin prevent the success uv the Democratic candidate for the Presidency, no matter who he may be or wat platform he is pot on. In view uv the dissolooshen uv the Republican party, and the fact that the niggers, ain't now got no perteckters, its really generous that yoo——"

The Republikin party is gone to pieces! hez it? gasped my twenty-two white friends in korious.

"It hez!" respondid Bigler.

"Then," sed Deekin Pogram, his eyes dashin in with unwontid fire, "what we've done and sed don't count! Take that, yoo black cuss!"

And with a strength and activity wich I hedn't lookt for in one so agid, the Deekin feeht the darkey whose hand he hed bin graspin, a most powerful blow atween the eyes which fisted him clean of the platform. The others follered soot, and in their zeal sprang off the platform after em, and wuz a execitin war dances uv the most frantic descripshen onto their prostrate bodies. It wuz with difficulty that Pollock and Bigler restrained em from takin uv em out and hangin uv em.

Ez a matter uv course the resalloosheu wuz rescinded, and others adopted affirmin our adherence to the constooshen ez it yoost to be, the illegality uv the amendments, and the. nateral soopremmacy uv the white man over the d—d nigger, after wich we adjourned to Bascom's, ez is our custom, and there organized fresh raids onto our nateral enemies.

The next mornin I notised a pecooliyer look on Bigler's face and likewise on Pollock's. They grinned at me ez I passed, with a broadnis which I couldn't account for. Lubbock, the nigger Postmaster, just into a roar ez I walked into his digs and I angrily demandid the reason for his hilarity.

"Dat mistake ob Bigler's," returned he, laughing louder than before.

"What mistake?" I asked, turnin pale, for a suspishun wuz creepin over me.

"Why, he didn't get no paper at all, and—"

"And all that story about the split in the Republikin party North wuz one uv his infernal lies!"

"Dat's about de correct state ob de case!" replied the nigger shoin all his ivories "Bigler wanted to see ef yoor pentance wuz genooine—dat's about all dah wuz ob it. He 'prest a desire to assertane jist how peaceable yood be to de nigger and de Northern people down heah, ef dah wuzn't no Publikin party up North to hold yoo; dat wuz all."

And the nigger laffed a feendish laff.

"Dat wuz all!" he repeated.

It wuz enuff. I guess he cuss found out all that he wanted to. Uv course this "outrage," ez they will call it, will get into the Northern papers, and uv course Vallandygum's assershun will explode itself without hurtin anybody. Joe Bigler is my evil genius. I shel never be able to run things ez I want, to so long ez he lives.

PETROLEUM V. NASBY.
(wich wuz Postmaster.)

Sad Fate of a Late Army Officer.

Maj. Gen. Charles Mundee, a citizen of Tallahassee, Fla., who attended the recent re-union of the Army of the Potomac in Boston, died in the New York city Tombs one night last week. He had been visiting some acquaintances in New York, among others Gens. Newton, Wright and Hamilton, his former companions in arms, and he was supposed to have returned to his home. But it appears that he purchased an interest in a few drinking den for $200, and attended there regularly every day, sitting quiet behind the bar. On Friday last three men entered the saloon, were waited upon by Mundee's partner, and one of them declared that he had been robbed, went for an officer, and had the barkeeper arrested. Next day Mundee was also arrested, taken to the Tombs, and, being seized with convulsions, died within two hours. The deceased, it is stated, was a man of great wealth and high standing, had been an officer in the regular army of the United States for a considerable time, was forty-four years of age, and leaves a wife and six children. His friends can account for his conduct only on the ground that he was insane. Gen. Hamilton declares that while with him in the army he was never an intemperate man, and that he was highly esteemed by his fellow officers. The remains were taken charge of to be forwarded to his family in Tallahassee.

Border Damage Bill.—Annexed will be found the Border Damage Bill as it finally passed both Houses. It provides for a re-adjudication of the claims, the issuing of certificates, and a demand on the General Government for payment:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted, &c., That the claims of the citizens of the county of York, Cumberland, Adams, Franklin, Fulton, Bedford and Perry, for extraordinary losses sustained during the rebellion, as adjudicated under the several acts of Assembly, approved sixteenth April, A. D., 1863, fifteenth February, A. D., 1865, and ninth April, A. D., 1868, be subjected to a careful revision by two commissioners in the county of York, two in the county of Adams, two in the counties of Cumberland and Perry, and two in the counties of Fulton and Bedford, to be appointed by the president judges of the courts of common pleas of said several counties, and the Governor shall appoint competent counsel to represent the State Government in the revision of said claims before the several commissions shall re-examine and re-adjudicate all of said claims, and may reject or diminish any now on file as equity may require, but not increase the amount of any excepting the claim of the German Reform Church represented by S. R. Fisher and company, which shall be equitably adjusted; and any claims which may have been assigned or transferred by the original claimant, the assignee or present owner of the same shall be required to make satisfactory proof of the account actually paid for the claim, and account so paid shall be awarded and no more; and if any owner of an assigned claim shall fail to make such proof satisfactorily the claim shall be rejected, and as soon as commissioners re-adjudicate said claims, they shall endorse their approval thereon for the amount allowed and return the claims to the Auditor General.

SEC. 2. The State shall issue to each claimant or to his, her or their proper representative, a certificate or certificates to the amount allowed on each claim, in the following form:

COMMONWEALTH OF PENNSYLVANIA.
Certificate of Adjudicate Claim for War Damages.

This is to certify that ——— has on file in the office of the Auditor General a duly approved and registered claim for the sum of ——— dollars, as adjudicated under the act entitled an act to authorize the liquidation of damages sustained by the citizens of Pennsylvania during the late rebellion, and payable only when said claims shall be paid by the United States Government.

In testimony we have hereunto set our hands and the seal of the State this ——— day of ———, A. D., 1871.

Which certificate shall be signed by the Governor and State Treasurer, and be registered and countersigned by the Auditor General.

SEC. 3. It shall be the duty of the Governor of the State to demand the payment of said claims by the General Government, and also the pay of the amount heretofore paid by the State on said claims, and to appoint such agents for the purpose as may be deemed necessary, and any appropriation made by Congress to said claims shall be wholly applied to the certificates authorized by the second section of this act, as Congress may direct until the same shall be paid in full: Provided, That the State shall not be constructed to make the State in any wise responsible for or on account of said certificate.

SEC 4. That the commissions and counsel authorized to be appointed by the first section of this act shall be paid eight dollars for each day, not exceeding sixty days actually employed in pursuance of their appointment, and their compensation, together with the necessary expenses of the said certificates shall be audited in the usual manner and be paid on the warrant of the Governor out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

Serious Result of a Blast.—On last Friday morning the rockmen engaged in blasting on Section 5 of the railroad, just below Hartley's mill in Snake Spring township, set off a heavy blast directly opposite the House of George Smouse, esq., a stone weighing between 100 and 150 pounds was thrown high into the air and descended upon the roof of the house just beyond and passing through the roof and two floors fell in the kitchen and breaking the floor there also. It would have gone to the cellar if it had not struck the wall and window facing before it struck the floor. It was almost miraculous that none of the family was killed, as it passed through a bedroom within two feet of a bed, in which a child of three or four years was sleeping, cutting off two heavy joists in the floor above and one beneath, and scattering lath, plastering and splinters in every direction. Mrs. Smouse had just left the kitchen a few minutes before and gone to the cellar and sent two or three children that were with her out of doors. The stone fell near the cooking stove and broke two chairs and upset things generally, and would doubtless have killed several of the family if they had remained in the kitchen a few minutes longer. There was a general upsetting and sliding off shelves of crockery and other things all through the house. There seems to have been considerable carelessness in the blasting as the house is from 200 to 300 yards from where the blasting was done, and should have been entirely out of danger if ordinary care had been taken in fixing the blast.—Bedford Inquirer.

—On the island of Borneo there has been found a certain race of wild creatures, of which kindred varieties have been discovered in the Phillippine islands, in Terra del Fuego, and South America. They walk, usually, almost erect on two legs, and in this attitude measure about four feet in height. They construct no habitation, form no families, scarcely associate together, sleep in caves or trees, feed on snakes and vermin, and ant-eggs, on mice, and on each other. They cannot be tamed or forced to any labor, and are hunted and shot among the trees, like the great gorilla, of which they are a stunted copy. When they are captured alive, one finds with surprise that their uncouth jabbering sounds like articulate language. They turn up a human face to gaze at their captor, and females show instincts of modesty, and, in fine, these wretched beings are men.

GENTLEMEN just arrived at St. Paul from Manitowba report than on May 24th the American Consul, J. W. Taylor, was assaulted by a Canadian soldier, who struck at Mr. Taylor with a club, fortunately missing him. Mr. Taylor escaped to the Consulate and immediately pulled down the American flag, which was flying in honor of the Queen's birthday. No action was taken by the authorities on this outrage or other acts of lawlessness committed by soldiers, who are fast instituting a reign of terror.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA. Or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by Self-Indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price, in a sealed envelope only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent, under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid on receipt of six cents or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents.
